Sales & Operations Planning

Does your organization seem unable to co-ordinate your execution plans and your sales activities? Do you struggle with communicating goals across your organization? Does it seem like the minute you put a plan together someone wants to change it? A formal S&OP process has helped many organizations improve both their communication and execution. Doug has experienced the benefits of S&OP both from an operations perspective, and through the work he's done with several large multi-national organizations in implementing S&OP. He will help you gain an understanding of S&OP and where it fits in your organization. He will also share the essentials of a good S&OP process, how to get started, and some of the pitfalls to look out for.

From the President's Desk....

Thanks to everyone for another excellent year. It has gone by so quickly. I hope it has been as enjoyable for all the members as it has been for me.

Please review the included proposed by-law changes, as we will be asking for a vote to change them in the up and coming PDM meeting.

Once again if you know of anyone interested in volunteering for a board of directors position please have them contact one of the current board members. We are always looking for good volunteers for next years board of directors.

Have a great summer, and see you again next year.

Sincerely,

Teresa L. Severt, CPIM
