Introducing BOMs - APICS Columbus - Student chapter, Buckeye Operations Management Society

An APICS student chapter, Buckeye Operations Management Society (BOMS), has been forming over the summer at Ohio State University. This is an exciting development because OSU ranks 4th in the nation for its undergraduate programs in Supply Chain Management/Logistics and in Production and Operations Management, but has not had an active APICS student chapter for several years. With a number of talented and enthusiastic student officers, and support and guidance from the Columbus parent chapter, we are looking forward to forming strong linkages between operations management students and industry in the Columbus area. Anticipated activities include having guest speakers on relevant operational topics and career advice, a resume book and company tours. Our first meeting will be held Oct. 2nd at 7:30pm in 200 Scheonbaum Hall at OSU, and will focus on resume writing and job search techniques to prepare students for the Fisher College of Business Career Fair to be held the following week. If your firm is interested in becoming an active partner with BOMS, please contact Ryan Barker, BOMS President, at barker.223@osu.edu or Andrea Prud'homme, Faculty Advisor, at prudhomme.3@osu.edu.

Professional Development Schedule:

October 21st – Vaughn Hovey at Old Bag of Nails in Westerville

November 18th – Plant tour of Liebert

December 8th – APICS/NAPM Joint Meeting

January 20th (Lunch) – Plant Tour Anthony Thomas

February 17th – Dr. Douglas
